

ELEVEN HURT IN WRECK OF TROLLEY CAR

Runaway Dashes Down
Hill in Jersey City and Jumps Track.

STOPS IN GRAVEYARD.

Passengers Thrown Down and Pinned Under Broken Woodwork.

Eleven persons were badly hurt and others were slightly injured in the wreck of a trolley car belonging to the Hudson County Public Service Corporation at West Side Avenue and Montgomery street, Jersey City, at 5:45 A. M. to-day.

The badly injured are:
LAWLER, HARRY, conductor of the car, head and body cut and bruised; City Hospital.

GROVES, ARTHUR E., No. 159 Storm street, body cut and legs crushed; taken home.

LANEY, THOMAS, No. 78 Thorn street, head cut; taken home.

BURNS, WILLIAM, Newark street, body cut and crushed about the body; City Hospital.

COYNE, THOMAS, No. 81 Magnolia avenue, right leg crushed; taken home.

BURNS, WILLIAM, No. 96 Fallside avenue, body cut and legs crushed; taken home.

MANNION, WALTER, No. 630 Newark avenue, internal injuries; condition serious; City Hospital.

KILLEN, JOHN, Jr., No. 389 Wayne street, internal injuries and legs crushed; condition serious; City Hospital.

KILLEN, JOHN, Jr., son of the first named, same address; internal injuries; condition serious; City Hospital.

KELLY, JOHN, No. 61 Tonnelle avenue, body cut; taken home.

APPLEGATE, EDWARD, No. 32 Henry street, head and body cut; City Hospital.

The car, in charge of Motorman John O'Neill, of No. 66 Ocean avenue, started down the steep grade which runs from Westside avenue to Montgomery street. At this point the tracks curve sharply. It is a very dangerous place. Only recently a car came spinning down the grade and, running off the tracks at the curve, plunged into the Catholic cemetery at the foot of the street. Just at the foot of the grade and at the entrance to the cemetery stands a telegraph pole.

Brakes Refuse to Work.

O'Neill's car was crowded to-day so that standing room was at a premium. So heavy was the fog that the motorman could not see far ahead, and he felt his way cautiously until the car struck the grade.

On the grade the brakes of the car, so O'Neill alleges, refused to work, and the car started down the hill at a tremendous rate of speed. The further the car continued the faster it went. Striking the bottom of the car was whirling along at a mile a minute pace.

Men in the car, all of them bound for work, tried to leap from the car, but its momentum was too great. The car stayed on the rails until they struck the curve at the bottom of the hill, and then they bounded forward and plunged into the street. The side of the car struck the telegraph pole and was shattered. Men on the broken side of the car were hurled from their seats. Some of them were pinned down by the broken woodwork and seats.

The car continued on its wild race until it broke through the cemetery fence. When it came to a stop there was a wild cry for help. The police came, with many residents. Ambulances were called from all of the Jersey City hospitals.

Many of the injured men were so badly hurt that they were unconscious. They were treated by physicians, and those who could stand the journey were hurried off to the hospital. Others were taken to their homes.

The officials of the railway company deny that the brakes had not been in working order, and say that the accident was due to O'Neill going too fast down the hill and not being able to stop the car because of the fog.

SUICIDE IN THE PARK.

Man Believed to Be Rallo Silvio
Shoots Himself Through Head.

Policeman Clegara found the body of a man in the shrubbery alongside the Ramble in Central Park, near East Seventy-fifth street, to-day. A .32-caliber revolver beside the body indicated that the man had shot himself. The bullet wound was in his head.

Naturalization papers issued to Rallo Silvio by the Western District Court of Pennsylvania were found, with some letters written in Italian. The man was about thirty-five years old, five feet seven inches in height, of dark complexion, with brown eyes and black mustache. He wore a brown sack suit and a light Fedora hat.

Thousands of New Yorkers are getting rich through just such Real Estate Bargain Offers as are made to-day through

Thousands of New Yorkers are getting rich through just such Real Estate Bargain Offers as are made to-day through

WORLD WANTS.

WINNER AND SOME RIVALS IN TYPEWRITING CONTEST.

Miss M.E. Carrington,
the winner.

WORD A SECOND AND BLINDFOLDED

Miss Carrington Typewrites
3,700 Words in Hour's Contest.

Blindfolded and writing with lightning-like rapidity Miss Marie Carrington took first honors in the sight-unseen typewriting contest at the National Business Show in Madison Square Garden last night, writing 3,700 words to dictation in the hour without seeing her typewriter. Miss Carrington is from Springfield, Mass. Miss Rose Fritz, of New York, was second in the blindfolded contest.

To-morrow night forty young women will contest for the typewriting championship of the world, while former Lieut.-Gov. Tim Woodruff will look on and probably act as judge. Among the experts contesting to-night are Miss Carrington, winner of the blindfolded contest; Eva De Fries, Dorothy Fisher, Lella Hann and Sarah Vernon.

With Mr. Woodruff there will be William Allen Dyer and J. Walter Earle.

EDNA MAY NOT GERARDY'S FIANCEE

Actress Denies Report of Engagement to Handsome Violinist.

Now for the very latest of the Edna May engagement stories. This time it is a brand-new one. The lucky man who is said to possess the heart of the beautiful Edna is Jean Gerardy, the violinist, who arrives this evening on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. And this is what Miss May has to say about it—and she said it sitting right under a great big picture of Mr. Gerardy, too:

"What a funny story to get out! Wherever did you hear it? I am very fond of Mr. Gerardy; in fact, we are the very best of friends, but engaged—why, where did you say you heard it?"

"This is his picture," continued Miss May, pointing to the handsome violinist's photograph. "We really think a great deal of each other and we were together a lot before I came to America."

Denies Her Engagement.

"Yes, I think everything in the world of Mr. Gerardy as a friend, but we are not engaged."

"You know he gave me a perfectly beautiful 'cello, for I am passionately fond of music and I play on the 'cello a little. Mr. Gerardy took me to a fine teacher and was personally interested in seeing that I got the best of instruction. Then he gave me the splendid 'cello. I did not bring it to America with me because I have had no time to devote to music."

"My engagement? Oh, don't talk about that any more!" laughed Miss May. "Really, I never know who I am destined to marry by the papers until I read them. Every day it's a new man."

"Yes, it's true I had thought of going out to meet the steamer when it was scheduled to arrive at eight this morning, but I simply couldn't do that. Then, of course, I can't go if it gets in this evening."

Will Be at Gerardy Banquet.

"I expect to see Mr. Gerardy as soon as he arrives, and I will be a guest at the banquet to be given him by the leading musicians of New York at Martin's. I am very anxious to see Mr. Gerardy, for I am very, very fond of him."

Reports concerning Miss May's fondness for the young violinist have assumed as serious a nature that the story of the engagement was a result. Before the star of "The Catch of the Season" came to America she and Mr. Gerardy were constantly in each other's society and the young musician did not try to conceal his devotion for the beautiful actress.

But Miss May says they are not engaged.

SUNDAY WORLD WANTS
WORK MONDAY WONDERS.

STUYVESANT FISH PAYS WIFE'S BILL

It's the First Time the Railroad President Has Ever Done So.

For the first time since their marriage Stuyvesant Fish, President of the Illinois Central Railroad, has paid a bill for his wife, a famous society leader. It is on record in the County Clerk's office in the form of a satisfaction of the judgment obtained by Stephen H. Keating from a jury in the City Court in May for $1,750.00 for a set of Russian sables bought of Adelbert Jaeger & Co.

Mr. Fish testified on the trial that his income was $150,000 a year, but that Mrs. Fish, who has maintained her place at the head of the "smart set" for a generation, had a handsome income from her own private property, and he had never paid any of her bills nor given her any allowance.

Judge James B. Dill, who has said that his income is the largest trust lawyer in America was $500,000 a year, appeared in the trial before Justice DeLoach for the society leaders. He contended that as Mrs. Fish had always paid her own bills, her millionaire husband was not responsible for debts she contracted. This bill was disputed also on the ground that the sixteen Russian sables made up into muffs and tiptops for Mrs. Fish were not the skins sent to her for approval.

Stephen H. Keating contended that no matter how much money Mrs. Fish had, nor how many bills she had paid, her husband could not escape responsibility for debts she contracted if they were reasonable and necessary to a woman of her station.

Judge DeLoach and the jury agreed with Mr. Keating, and now Mr. Fish pays the judgment.

sonal command of a detachment whose strength is not mentioned, recently attacked an entrenched force of rebellious natives on the Orange River, east of Harbeshmond.

The latter, who were under the command of Morengo, Morris and Christian, were at least 40 strong. The fighting lasted several hours until nightfall.

Three German officers and thirteen men were killed, and three officers and thirty-one men were wounded, and five are missing.

The rebels drew off during the night. The troops were too exhausted to follow them. British police, who observed the fight from the south bank of the river in Cape Colony, said the natives lost heavily.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—An official despatch from German Southwest Africa says that Lieut.-Gen. Von Trotha, the commander-in-chief of the forces, in personal command of a detachment whose strength is not mentioned, recently attacked an entrenched force of rebellious natives on the Orange River, east of Harbeshmond.

The latter, who were under the command of Morengo, Morris and Christian, were at least 40 strong. The fighting lasted several hours until nightfall.

Three German officers and thirteen men were killed, and three officers and thirty-one men were wounded, and five are missing.

The rebels drew off during the night. The troops were too exhausted to follow them. British police, who observed the fight from the south bank of the river in Cape Colony, said the natives lost heavily.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—An official despatch from German Southwest Africa says that Lieut.-Gen. Von Trotha, the commander-in-chief of the forces, in personal command of a detachment whose strength is not mentioned, recently attacked an entrenched force of rebellious natives on the Orange River, east of Harbeshmond.

The latter, who were under the command of Morengo, Morris and Christian, were at least 40 strong. The fighting lasted several hours until nightfall.

Three German officers and thirteen men were killed, and three officers and thirty-one men were wounded, and five are missing.

The rebels drew off during the night. The troops were too exhausted to follow them. British police, who observed the fight from the south bank of the river in Cape Colony, said the natives lost heavily.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—An official despatch from German Southwest Africa says that Lieut.-Gen. Von Trotha, the commander-in-chief of the forces, in personal command of a detachment whose strength is not mentioned, recently attacked an entrenched force of rebellious natives on the Orange River, east of Harbeshmond.

The latter, who were under the command of Morengo, Morris and Christian, were at least 40 strong. The fighting lasted several hours until nightfall.

Three German officers and thirteen men were killed, and three officers and thirty-one men were wounded, and five are missing.

The rebels drew off during the night. The troops were too exhausted to follow them. British police, who observed the fight from the south bank of the river in Cape Colony, said the natives lost heavily.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—An official despatch from German Southwest Africa says that Lieut.-Gen. Von Trotha, the commander-in-chief of the forces, in personal command of a detachment whose strength is not mentioned, recently attacked an entrenched force of rebellious natives on the Orange River, east of Harbeshmond.

The latter, who were under the command of Morengo, Morris and Christian, were at least 40 strong. The fighting lasted several hours until nightfall.

Three German officers and thirteen men were killed, and three officers and thirty-one men were wounded, and five are missing.

The rebels drew off during the night. The troops were too exhausted to follow them. British police, who observed the fight from the south bank of the river in Cape Colony, said the natives lost heavily.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—An official despatch from German Southwest Africa says that Lieut.-Gen. Von Trotha, the commander-in-chief of the forces, in personal command of a detachment whose strength is not mentioned, recently attacked an entrenched force of rebellious natives on the Orange River, east of Harbeshmond.

The latter, who were under the command of Morengo, Morris and Christian, were at least 40 strong. The fighting lasted several hours until nightfall.

Three German officers and thirteen men were killed, and three officers and thirty-one men were wounded, and five are missing.

The rebels drew off during the night. The troops were too exhausted to follow them. British police, who observed the fight from the south bank of the river in Cape Colony, said the natives lost heavily.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—An official despatch from German Southwest Africa says that Lieut.-Gen. Von Trotha, the commander-in-chief of the forces, in personal command of a detachment whose strength is not mentioned, recently attacked an entrenched force of rebellious natives on the Orange River, east of Harbeshmond.

The latter, who were under the command of Morengo, Morris and Christian, were at least 40 strong. The fighting lasted several hours until nightfall.

Three German officers and thirteen men were killed, and three officers and thirty-one men were wounded, and five are missing.

The rebels drew off during the night. The troops were too exhausted to follow them. British police, who observed the fight from the south bank of the river in Cape Colony, said the natives lost heavily.

BEAUTY IN CELL FOR DINNER BILL

Prisoner Refuses to Pay, and Says She Is Mrs. Van Rensselaer Schuyler.

Describing herself as Mrs. Elizabeth Schuyler, wife of Van Rensselaer Schuyler, who has an office at No. 10 Wall street, and living at the Hotel Newton, Broadway and Ninety-fourth street, a beautiful young woman, handsomely groomed and of marked refinement, spent last night in the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station, charged with "stealing" Police's restaurant out of a dinner bill of $2.75.

When arraigned in the West Side Court to-day the charge was withdrawn and the woman discharged.

The woman, who said she was twenty-four years old, scarcely looked that age, and when arraigned before the sergeant she created a scene, collapsing and becoming hysterical.

The woman, with another a few years older, entered Jack's and ordered a dinner. Philip Smith, a waiter, served the meal. Both drank wine sparingly. Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

After they had been sitting at the restaurant table more than three hours the waiter told Mrs. Schuyler that the money for the meal was not forthcoming. When Smith handed the bill for $2.75, whereupon the younger remarked that she and her friend were waiting for a Mr. Jacoby, whom they expected at any minute.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

To Prove What the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root Will Do for YOU Every Reader of The Evening World May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free by Mail.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected, and how every organ seems to fall to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly" begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one.

I was out of health and run down generally; had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but some how felt that they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers.

Gratefully yours,
MRS. A. L. WALKER.

531 East Linden St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow.

Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night.

Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; makes your head ache and back ache, causes indigestion, stomach and liver trouble; you get a sallow, yellow complexion, makes you feel as though you had heart trouble; you get a weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

How to Find Out.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in a glass or bottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is used in the leading hospitals, recommended by physicians in their private practice, and is taken by the greatest and most successful remedy for kidney, liver and bladder troubles.